CONTENTS

- 127 How India's Caste Inequality Has Persisted—and Deepened in the Pandemic Ashwini Deshpande
Groups at the bottom have suffered most during COVID-19 lockdowns, reflecting the persistence of a system of social stigmatization that many Indians insist is a thing of the past.
- 133 Pakistan's Education Reform Test. Faisal Bari
Despite a constitutional guarantee of education, Pakistani schools are failing to deliver on quality, equity, and opportunity. Now a curriculum debate is raising tensions over national identity.
- 140 The Endurance and Evolution of Afghan Customary Governance Jennifer Brick Murtazashvili
While expensive state-building projects faltered, traditional authorities stayed relevant in rural areas, solving disputes and providing services. Will the ascendant Taliban push them aside?
- 146 Shared Traditions for Living in the Sundarbans. Sufia Uddin
Landless Hindus and Muslims in the delta sprawling across the Bangladesh–India borderlands have common class interests, depend on the same imperiled ecosystem, and even share saints.
- 152 How the Maldives Have Navigated
Disease and Development Eva-Maria Knoll
Eradicating malaria opened the way to development of the remote Indian Ocean island chain in the last century. COVID-19 has posed a new challenge to an economy dependent on global tourism.
- PERSPECTIVE
- 159 Is the Deep Freeze Between China and India Turning Hot? Sumit Ganguly
Increasingly violent standoffs between the two Asian powers on their long, mountainous border will be harder to resolve with nationalist strongmen digging in on both sides.
- BOOKS
- 162 Recovering Hindustan and India Audrey Truschke
A new book explores a premodern historian's vision of the subcontinent as a home for all religious traditions—and the role of colonialism in promoting a Hindu-centric idea of India.
